

SINGAPORE

Stylish Living

If Coco Chanel and Andy Warhol were to visit modern-day Singapore, where would they choose to stay? Naumi Hotel is probably a good guess. The hotel unveils four newly furnished guest rooms that take inspiration from the fashion and art world's most influential figures. The Gabrielle and Camellia takes a page from Coco Chanel's chic monochromatic signature – walls are adorned with floor-to-ceiling silk curtains accented with silver leaves. The overall tone is sleek, modern and luxurious. The colourful world of Andy Warhol is reimagined within the walls of the Eden and Nirwana rooms. Cheeky shapes and bright colours can be found throughout the rooms, where spherical stools and a circular bathtub become visually dominating features. Each of these artfully appointed rooms is fitted with luxurious amenities, including 400 thread-count Egyptian cotton sheets, Apple TV and lush bath amenities. www.naumihotel.com
